Northeast Educational Associates Named to “Top 100 Educational Resources” list

Providing homeschool students and families with proven, trusted curriculums and tools.

CATASAUQUA, PA — March 6, 2019 — Northeast Educational Associates recently had two of its companies named “Top 100 Educational Resources for 2019,” by Homeschool.com.

The list, compiled from nominations and votes from homeschoolers throughout the United States, provides homeschool families with one central place to find answers to their specific school needs, from one-off courses to grading help to full-year-long curriculums.

Two companies under the Northeast Educational Associates’ umbrella, Bridgeway Academy and Elephango, are being recognized in the “Multiple Subjects / Online Homeschooling” category.

Bridgeway Academy, celebrating its 30th year in 2019, offers fully-accredited, personalized homeschool programs. From learning style assessments to customized curriculum options, Bridgeway meets the needs of homeschooling families, from Pre-K through high school graduation. Bridgeway knows that every student, every family, is different, and avoids a “one-size-fits-all” approach to learning through its personalized, flexible programs, allowing students to learn in the way and place that will best guarantee their success.

Elephango, an industry leader in curriculum resources, encourages education through self-learning, creativity, and experimentation. All products provide engaging answers to the question, “Why do I need to know this?” Products range from core subjects, like math and science, to college and career studies, and are suitable for students in kindergarten through 12th grade, and match learning to a student’s individual need.

“We’re honored to be recognized for our commitment to providing the best resources available to homeschool families,” says Jessica Parnell, president of Northeast Educational Associates. “We’re dedicated to working with our families so that they experience homeschool success and ensure their students have the opportunity to discover and pursue their personal excellence, both inside and outside the homeschool classroom.”
